Rutlandshire is the least County in England, yet includes more Seats of the Nobility & Gentry, than any other Tract of Ground of yͤ same Content. It sends but 2 Members to Parliament, having no Borough, 2 Principal Market Towns, & 48 Parishes.

Okeham, is the County Town, well built & inhabited. Here is an Ancient Custom, that every Baron the first time he comes thro' the Town shall give a Horse-shoe, to nail on the Castle-gate; & in case of refusal, the Bailiff has power to stop his Coach, & take one from his Horses foot: this is usually compounded for with Money, & in proportion to the sum given, a Shoe is made (bigger or less) and inscribed with the Donor's name. Market Saturday Fairs April 27. Sept: 4.

Uppingham Market Wednes: Fairs Feb: 24. July 7.

The River Wash or Guash rises in the W. border of this County, & flows thro the Middle of it into Lincolnshire, meeting below Stamford the Welland, which divides this County from Northamptonshire towards the S. E. In the N. W. part rises the Wreke, which runs in Leicestershire.
